Column One By David Courtney

MR. Trygve Lie expects to go on to Moscow today. The statement about his mission, which he gave to the press last Wednesday, was the most prominently displayed story in some newspapers. The "Manchester Guardian" gave it the lead over Mr. Acheson's press conference, which told about the Secretary of State's planned visit to Europe, and how he had the Russians were. But most of the papers had a number of things better than Mr. Trygve Lie. Peace is not news. The London "Daily Telegraph" put the U.N. Secretary-General on an inside page, with a gratuitous note from its Diplomatic Correspondent to the effect that the real purpose of Mr. Lie's visit to Moscow "is not clear," and that any suggestion of his going with the full approval of the United States, Britain and France, is "inaccurate." And the unwary, who might be fooled into thinking Mr. Trygve Lie's notion a good one, are warned by the "Daily Telegraph's" Diplomatic Correspondent that "Mr. Lie has been regarded as one who shows considerable deference to the Communist Party line."

If there should come, one day, an end to tension and a beginning to constructive peace, the world's press will have contributed little to the occasion. If that day should come, the press will share responsibility with the politicians. It possesses, as Lord Baldwin, one time Prime Minister of Britain, remarked, power without responsibility and it exercises power irresponsibly. The latest issue of "Time" is quick to abhor the idea of suppressing freedom of thought, but "at the same time" expresses the view that "the Soviet Union is a danger to the world." Mr. Owen Lattimore, should be checked out of their jobs along with Professor Joliot Curie. It is a sick world.

MR. Lie should get to Moscow and be started on his talks "with the Soviet chiefs on the same day as Mr. Acheson, Mr. Bevin, and Mr. Schuman meet in London and start on theirs. If most of the newspapers have their way, the three Foreign Ministers will spend their time fashioning a knobby big stick, bigger than ever, to wave at the Russians in Europe and the Far East. There is always the chance that the newspapers will not get their way. The three Foreign Ministers are said to be very worried. Little things that add up to big ones are worrying them. The press is making a hullabaloo about the Communists' plans to invade West Berlin at the Whitelash holiday. They made the same hullabaloo before May Day, and the Western politicians responded. But on May Day, the only trouble in Berlin came from Adenauer demonstrators, who pitched stones and bottles across the socal dividing line at what the "New York Times" described as "well-disciplined East Berlin police."

THREE little anxieties may help Mr. Lie. They may help him by teaching London, Paris and Washington not to be too cocksure. The Soviet probably has similar anxieties; and one way and another, there seems a good deal of profit for both sides in a peaceful agreement, and none at all for the side which refuses a peaceful agreement. Eleven senior members of Harvard University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology wrote a letter to the "New York Times" the other day pointing out that General Bradley may be on the wrong strategic tack; and, saying in effect, the atom bomb is not the strength but the weakness of Western defenses. Perhaps, after all, Mr. Lie has something.

Only Jordan, Egypt Ready For League Meeting

The Arab League's Political Committee is scheduled to open its conference today in Cairo but only one Arab country — Jordan — is thus far represented there. The Syrian delegation, which has been held up by the country's political difficulties, may leave Damascus for Cairo today. According to Damascus Radio, the major political parties conferred yesterday on the resignation of Premier Riad el Solh, and voted to ask el Azem to continue in office and to proceed to the Cairo meeting.

But the parties specified that el Azem must return to Damascus after three days regardless of whether or not the meeting there has finished.

Want Sanctions
The Near East Broadcasting Station reported from Cairo that the Gaza Government had submitted a memorandum to the League's Secretary-General, Azzam Pasha, requesting the League to impose sanctions on Jordan for annexing Arab Palestine. The report added that Azzam favored the attendance at the meetings of the Gaza group, a move that probably would result in Jordan's boycotting the sessions.

In Amman, NEARS reported, a royal decree named Deputy Minister Fawzi Mulki Pasha as Acting Foreign Minister during Shureiki Pasha's absence in Cairo, while the Public Works Minister, Achmed Toukan — a Palestinian Arab — was named Acting Finance Minister during the absence of Sukar Pasha, who is in London for financial talks.

There was no indication so far of what measures, if any, are contemplated against Jordan for annexing Arab Palestine. The League's legal department recently stated that annexation constituted no ground for sanctions "as Jordan gave assurances that the measure was temporary."

Kermit Roosevelt Says M.E. War Near

LOS ANGELES, Tuesday, (UP). — Mr. Kermit Roosevelt, Jr., last night said that Israel and the Arab states are near war again. "The Arabs feel that Israel eventually will expand its territory by force," he said in a speech here. Mr. Roosevelt, a grandson of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, was in the Middle East in 1948 and served in Egypt as a State Department representative.

The Arabs "believe so many immigrants are coming to Israel that even now there is not enough room for everyone," he said adding that a conflict could be prevented if the U.S. told both sides that it would act in case of any new action.

In Washington, Democratic Representative Abraham Miller warned Congress that war may come to the Middle East soon unless the U.S. moves to stop British arms shipments to Arab countries. He recalled that Mr. Acheson is scheduled to discuss the situation with Mr. Bevin and said that the "outcome of that discussion may mean peace or war for the Arab states and Israel."

Jordan Premier Visits Old City

Ramallah Radio said yesterday that Jordan Premier Said Pasha el Mufli had arrived in the Old City on his first visit to Arab Palestine since taking office. He was accompanied by Pasha Madadha, Jordan Minister of the Interior, and Camille Bay Chamoun, leader of the Lebanese Opposition, who now is on a tour of Arab Palestine.

House Clears Deck For Budget Debate

By MOSHE BRILLIANT
Disposing of the whole backlog of legislation awaiting House action yesterday afternoon, the Knesset within one-and-a-half hours adopted three new laws, completed the first readings of three more bills, and approved a series of changes in customs and excise duties. The members adjourned early, anticipating a long general debate on the annual budget this afternoon.

The Finance Minister, Mr. Eliezer Kaplan, will open the debate with a survey of the economic and financial situation. He is understood to have prepared a written speech, contrary to his usual practice. Mr. Kaplan was not present in the Knesset yesterday or Monday. Of the three laws enacted yesterday, two dealt with fiscal matters. They empowered the Finance Minister: 1. to guarantee a IL350,000 loan at four per cent interest by the Anglo-Palestine Bank to the Tel Aviv Municipality; 2. to guarantee a IL1,443,000 loan at two-and-a-half per cent interest by the Anglo-Palestine Bank to the Citrus Marketing Board.

Bar Experience
The third new law replaced the legislation inherited from the Mandatory Government with respect to the certification of documents by notaries public for use abroad. The old law was particularly unsuitable because it provided that only barristers, solicitors, writers to the signet, and notaries authorized to work in Great Britain might certify documents for foreign use.

But in addition to correcting this anomaly, the new law was also adapted to changed conditions in the country in that it facilitated matters for immigrant advocates. The period of bar experience needed for qualification as notaries remains ten years, but only two years' experience in this country is now needed. This amendment was introduced at the recommendation of the Bar Association.

Higher Excise
The House unanimously approved two measures increasing excise on beer and some other intoxicating beverages and import duty on kerosene. These increases had been enacted by the Finance Minister in March but according to law they required the approval of Knesset after three months.

Of the three new bills introduced, the most interesting was that designed to remove legal doubts about the validity of the appointment of Professor Sunha Asaf, of the Hebrew University, to the Supreme Court bench. Professor Asaf, a learned rabbi, had not been an advocate and did not qualify for membership in the Supreme Court under the law inherited from the Mandate, which required Supreme Court justices to have been judges.

UNRWA Hopes To Get RFC Loan

By JESSE ZEL LURIE.
LAKE SUCCESS, Tuesday. — The U.N. Relief and Works Agency hopes to obtain a $50 million loan from the U.S. Reconstruction Finance Corporation before May 30, when its present loans from the U.N. and the International Refugee Organization will be exhausted. Not a single penny of the $50 million approved by the U.N. Assembly has been received by UNRWA yet, but the American Foreign Aid Bill, which is presently before a joint Senate-House conference committee, includes enabling legislation for half of the sum and a provision for an immediate $5 million loan by R.F.C.

LAKE SUCCESS, Tuesday. — A second appeal for contributions in funds or kind to carry out the programme of the U.N. Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Arab refugees has been sent to all governments. The appeal, issued by the U.N. headquarters yesterday, calls attention to the "acute need" for contributions and the "gravity of the financial position of the agency at the present time."

The appeal points out that the current relief programme is being financed by an advance of $4.5m. from the United Nations and an interest free loan of $2.5m. from the International Refugee Organization. "These amounts," the appeal said, "will permit the agency to continue only a minimum relief programme and this for a period not extending beyond May 30, 1950."

Tunisian Moslems Stone s.s. Akko

ALGIERS, Tuesday (Reuters). — Five hundred Tunisian Moslems today stoned an Israeli ship, the s.s. Akko, in Saida harbour, then set her on fire, pushed a police chief's car into the water, and injured a police inspector. Several demonstrators were arrested.

P.M. Receives War Veterans

Disabled war veterans of European armies who demanded the same privileges under laws now being drafted as wounded veterans of the War of Liberation, were received by the Prime Minister, Mr. Ben Gurion.

Two men representing a group of 350 disabled veterans were told by the Prime Minister that the State could be responsible only for soldiers wounded while serving under the orders of the Government in the recent war or the Jewish Agency during World War II. He said the Europeans should claim relief from the normal channels but promised special treatment for special cases and certain moral privileges.

The veterans said they had served in nine different armies. The Knesset's House Committee received a delegation of five.

Earlier the 350 veterans held a meeting in Jerusalem. Dr. N. Nir, Deputy Knesset Speaker, suggested that they apply to the Knesset and the Government.

WAR BUDGET DISCUSSED

The secret war budget was discussed in Jerusalem yesterday at a joint meeting of the Finance and Foreign Affairs and Security Committees of the Knesset.

Mr. Ben Gurion, in his capacity as Defence Minister, spoke on the structure of the Army, and Mr. D. Horowitz, Director-General of the Finance Ministry, also spoke. The meeting lasted for four and a half hours.

MINE KILLS BOY

Seven-year-old Shlomo Abdallah was fatally injured and six-year-old Pinhas Hanover seriously hurt when a mine exploded in the Musara quarter of Jerusalem yesterday. The children were rushed to hospital by the Magen David Adom. The police have begun an inquiry.

Six members of Hashomer Hatzair, on a hike in a Jerusalem valley, suffered minor injuries when an explosion occurred at the bonfire around which they were sitting.

Girl Returned Across Lines

One of the three Israel civilians who wandered across the lines in Jerusalem within the past six weeks was repatriated yesterday. She is Esther Yofe, 17, of the General Orphans Home who crossed the border in Jerusalem.

The other two still in Arab Legion hands are Mrs. Ruth Daniel, 32, who is still being interrogated, and Mr. Oscar Fish, 40. Mr. Fish allegedly told the Legion and an International Red Cross official that he did not want to return to that "Communist state" from which he had "escaped."

Jaffa Survivors Get Expenses

JAFFA, Tuesday. — The 29 survivor families from the Jaffa house collapse were today given IL30 each, for two months' expenses. All immediately left the Maspai club here, where they had found temporary shelter, for other and more convenient housing pending construction of their permanent homes.

Only one family now remains at the Maspai club — refugees from the Old City of Jaffa who were evacuated during last winter's rains.

Lie Urges U.N. To Admit Nine European States

GENEVA, Tuesday (Reuters). — U.N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie today urged the admission of nine countries to the U.N. to improve the chance of bridging the differences between Eastern and Western Europe.

He listed them as: Albania, Austria, Bulgaria, Finland, Hungary, Italy, Ireland, Portugal and Rumania. "If they were admitted," he declared, "the voice of Europe in the U.N. would be stronger." M. Lie said that the absence of these nine countries meant that almost as many European countries had been refused admission to the U.N. as there were European members.

The Secretary-General was laying the foundation stone of a new wing to the Palais de Nations, European office of the U.N. and old League of Nations headquarters.

League Recalled
He said: "Naturally this occasion recalls the days when the Palais des Nations itself was being built. In those days the countries of Europe played a greater part in the League of Nations than they have up to now been able to play in the U.N. In some respects this situation merely reflects the changed realities of power which, at the moment, is concentrated heavily in Moscow and Washington."

He added that in other respects the situation "is artificial and ought to be remedied" by admission of the nine states.

Mr. Lie told a news conference later that his first meeting in Moscow would be with Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky. "I hope to see Premier Stalin too, if it can be arranged," he added. He said he would discuss with Soviet leaders "all the problems we have had to face in the U.N. during the last four or five months."

Eban Pleads For Stability in U.N.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday (PTA). — The absence of permanent contact between two worlds within a single constitutional framework would be the most desperate failure which the world could envisage. Mr. Eban told a gathering at Town Hall here last night. Mr. Eban welcomed the efforts of U.N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie to summarize all governments "to their duty of mutual tolerance and co-existence."

He recalled that "but a few years ago, the Western and Eastern Powers were capable not only of tolerance but of active cooperation in the human enterprise of common defence."

Declaring that the co-existence of rival political systems within the world is the only alternative to a conflict unprecedented in its destructive potentialities, Mr. Eban made it clear that Israel is among those states which will work unceasingly "to the modest limits of their capacity and influence to bring about a stable equilibrium among all political groups within the United Nations."

Mr. Eban also appealed to the U.S. to permit the acquisition of arms in this country by Israel as long as weapons are being supplied to the Arab States.

"It is clear that the Jewish supplies of arms dispatched to the Arab States threaten to change the military equilibrium in the Middle East," he said. He pointed out that the shipment of arms to Arabs fortified all the elements opposed to an honorable peace with Israel.

Soviets Walk Out On 24th U.N. Meeting

BANGKOK, Tuesday (AP). — The Soviet Union today walked out of a meeting of the U.N. Economic Conference for Asia when delegates refused to discuss a Russian resolution for unseating the Nationalist Chinese delegates. It was the 24th Soviet walkout of U.N.

U.S., France Agree On German Plan

PARIS, Tuesday (UP). — The U.S. and France were reported today to have agreed on a plan for bringing Germany into a broad economic partnership of the Western nations. A government spokesman said that the French Cabinet had given the plan its full approval at a meeting today.

'No Strings' to U.S. Aid for Indo-China

PARIS, Tuesday. — Foreign Minister Robert Schuman told the French Cabinet today that American aid in Indo-China would be given "with no political strings attached," a foreign office spokesman said.

America recognized the necessity and urgency of the aid, the spokesman said, as a means of combating the further spread of Russian influence in south-east Asia.

M. Schuman's statement to the Cabinet followed by a few hours his conference here with Dean Acheson, U.S. Secretary of State, who left by plane this morning for London.

The spokesman said M. Schuman explained there was full agreement between himself and Mr. Acheson on what to do in Indo-China.

Reaction
Under the title "The French Empire gravely menaced," the London correspondent of the right-wing paper, "Epoch," today said: "The condition which the Americans apparently attach to their aid in Indo-China are equivalent in practice to putting us out of that country."

During the talks, the correspondent said, Mr. Philip Jessup, American Ambassador-at-Large, had manifested hostility to France "while the British supported the French only with the greatest softness."

The existing agreement between France and Indo-China did not seem to the Americans and British a sufficient step towards Indo-Chinese independence.

Vietnam Rebels Get Supplies from China

HONG KONG, Tuesday (Reuters). — Chinese Communists are rushing supplies to insurgents in Indo-China, according to unconfirmed Chinese reports from Canton.

A fleet of 50 ships was said to be ferrying the supplies from Luichow peninsula to Vietnam-held Indo-Chinese ports.

The reports said 200,000 Chinese government troops were stationed along China's frontier with Vietnam, where a French supported Indo-Chinese government, recognized by Britain and America, is fighting the regime of Dr. Ho Chi-Minh, recognized by Russia and East European countries.

Supplies were said to be pouring in to Dr. Ho Chi-Minh by land, sea, and air. A liaison office at Lungchow, in China's Kwangsi province, near the Indo-Chinese frontier, was directing the flow of Chinese aid, the reports said.

"The New York Times" reported from Saigon that French intelligence officers believed Ho Chi-Minh's government had concluded a secret military agreement with Mao Tse Tung's regime in China.

The newspaper's correspondent said that while all details of this suspected pact were still lacking, it was believed it provided for accelerated arms deliveries by China to Vietnam.

Valuable Book Collections Given to University Library

WASHINGTON, Tuesday (UPI).—A gift of 5,000 books has been presented to the Jewish National Library and Hebrew University of Jerusalem and the Bori Katznelson Institute by American Friends of the Hebrew University, and the Library of Congress. The collection will be sent to Israel at the end of this month.

This presentation, which marks the largest single shipment of books to Israel under such auspices, includes several outstanding private collections and specialized materials donated by the Library of Congress.

Some 1,200 volumes included in the gift, the Horniker collection, which is composed entirely of American imprints, deal primarily with the history of commerce, agricultural economics, economic theory, history, money and banking, and related subjects. They include also 14 complete ten-year sets (1926 to 1935) of leading American periodicals in this field. Prof. Arthur L. Horniker, formerly of the City College of New York, personally presented these books which he has collected over a period of 20 years.

Another private collection presented through the American Friends of the Hebrew University, the Nikodem Caro Science Library, consists of several thousand volumes collected by Professor Caro, outstanding chemist who died in 1935.

Dr. Eliahu, in his speech of acceptance, said "It is symbolic that the United States has not only aided the new State of Israel materially but is also contributing to its intellectual development. This is one of the many efforts of the Library of Congress dedicated to international cultural cooperation and understanding."

New T.A. Car Park Almost Empty

TEL AVIV, Tuesday.—The large new car park, opened by the Municipality on Sunday on the site of the former railway tracks near the Central Post Office, is gaining in popularity only very slowly.

Despite the fact that parking space in that section of the city is very hard to find during business hours, the new site which can accommodate about 60 vehicles, is still almost empty. By five o'clock yesterday evening, only nine cars were registered.

The reasons for this are said to be firstly, that car owners are unwilling to pay 30 mils per hour parking fee and would prefer to make monthly arrangements; and secondly, that little is known about this scheme. War invalids guard the place and issue receipts to vehicle owners parking their cars there.

The scheme is shortly to be extended with the levelling of further ground between Rehov Albeck and Rehov Yarni, and also to the west, up to Rehov Herzl.

THE budget for the year April 1, 1950 to March 31, 1951 to be presented to-day by the Treasurer to the Knesset should have been published six weeks ago instead of this week, and the Blue Book containing the figures should have given last year's estimates of revenue and expenditure and the actual receipts and outgoings for comparison with each other and with the new estimates. This said, it may be added that, apart from details, the amounts received and spent during the year ended March 31, 1950, are believed to have followed Mr. Kaplan's expectations fairly closely. It may therefore be predicted that, unless some extraordinary unforeseeable factors intrude themselves, his anticipation of a revenue of IL56m. is likely to be realized even though it will be as much as 35 per cent higher than last year's. The additional special Development Budget of IL65m. may not be fully spent, unless the causes which resulted in the implementation of only two-thirds of last year's IL55m. Development Budget are overcome — largely technical delays in getting practical schemes going. No comment, of course, can be made on the defence budget, which, apart from IL10m. included in the ordinary budget, remains secret, with no details even of the IL10m. published.

BUDGET

Although no new taxes are envisaged, attack against the estimates will come from the Left, which sees in the present system of taxation, with its considerable reliance on customs, excise and so-called luxury tax which is actually a general purchase tax on all but utility items, much on the British model, an inequitable burden on the workers, and from the Right, which sees in the higher reaches of the income tax a deterrent to all effort to earn. While, indeed, there are arguments in favour of making all taxation directly proportional to income, Mr. Kaplan's critics on the Left could in fairness be asked to say whether, if they could make the higher ranges of income tax even steeper than at present, they would not find it necessary also to maintain the other taxes in order to meet the undoubtedly heavier expenditure which they would insist on. They might also be invited to make an unbiased investigation of the accounts of some of the major co-operative societies—in transport, for example — and of the guises in which they increase their members' incomes and to say whether there is any real justification for their exemption from company income tax. At the same time, the critics on the Right might be invited to explain how they could bring about that considerable reduction in Government expenditure which alone would warrant the reduction in taxation which they are demanding.

While Mr. Kaplan's fiscal policies seem thus to be holding a reasoned balance, a certain amount of saving—or, what is the equivalent—a greater degree of efficiency, might be achieved by a general tightening up in Government offices. Complaints of inefficiency in all its manifestations are too frequently heard to be ignored. The budget of government expenditure on the service of efficiency is no less than any other business does.

More Pleasure
People with money to spend can gratify the most expensive tastes, and for the bulk of the population there is the Welfare State with its guarantee of full employment, stable or rising real wages, subsidized foods, controlled rents, free health service, old age pensions and what not. Travel to certain hard-currency countries is still restricted, but the well-to-do (and there are plenty of them) can cruise around in the West Indies and other parts of the Commonwealth, go winter-sporting in Scandinavia, and drink some of the one million bottles of champagne imported last year. Since last week, they can even spend more than the statutory five-shillings on a meal (apart from "house charges").

Beer has become stronger, and though the man who lingers too long over it in the pub may have to walk home if he cannot afford the higher fares likely to result from the Chancellor's latest tax on petrol, he saves on income-tax this year and has a reasonable chance to make ends meet. Isolationism
There is also the undeniable fact that Labour's great reform plans are stuck halfway towards realization, a circumstance which adds to the defensive and exhausted air currently worn by its politicians. One who knows them well believes that, in addition to being physically tired, they are bored to death with each other and with the sort

LABOUR DEADLOCK CASTS A SHADOW LIFE STEADY BUT SLOW IN BRITAIN

By GEORGE LICHTHEIM, Jerusalem Post Correspondent

LONDON, May. — There is a great change in the circumstances of life in Britain as they affect the ordinary resident, though not necessarily the tourists who are still complaining that life is poor and control-ridden. The latter may still lament the absence of good and plentiful restaurant food at reasonable prices and — if he is an American — the antique ways of shop assistants, waiters, drivers and other providers of what is known as "service".

He or she may wonder why London has no night life, why there is not a single cafe where people can sit over a newspaper and a cup of coffee, and why one of the largest cinemas in the West End arranges its performances in such a manner that the main film starts some ten minutes before the customers are allowed to come in and take their seats. Tourists may also resent the gloomy resignation which seems to fill British hoteliers at the sight of guests, the fancy "house charges", the extra six-shillings for a glass of sherry, and the stolid refusal to serve meals outside regular hours.

But for the ordinary person, life has become a good deal easier in the past four years. Food is back to pre-war, in quantity if not always in quality, and is more evenly distributed; household goods and clothing are plentiful and not too expensive; housing is still short, but no worse than elsewhere in Europe; and many small luxuries are now obtainable that were undreamed of in 1946.

MUSICAL DIARY

IN the dancing of Rosario and Antonio, who gave their first Israel performance in the Ohel Shem Hall, Tel Aviv, last Wednesday, the grace, rhythm and humour of a whole race became manifest. In this team, Senior Antonio shows himself to be a genius while Seniorita Rosario complements the harmony with charm and technical perfection. At the same time, the critics on the Right might be invited to explain how they could bring about that considerable reduction in Government expenditure which alone would warrant the reduction in taxation which they are demanding.

Beer has become stronger, and though the man who lingers too long over it in the pub may have to walk home if he cannot afford the higher fares likely to result from the Chancellor's latest tax on petrol, he saves on income-tax this year and has a reasonable chance to make ends meet. Co-Ops Come To Arab Town

By GIDON WEIGERT

EVERY third adult of Migdal Gadi's 2,500 Arab community takes part in one of the town's three co-operative enterprises which makes this southernmost Arab centre in Israel the most advanced in its field in the whole country.

Migdal's weavers' and farming cooperatives, and its Loan and Credit Bank, are the envy of the unemployed Arabs in Israel for scarcely knowing the meaning of sitting idle.

The town, previously named Majdal, was well-known in Mandate times as "the Manchester of Palestine," and a year ago, its present inhabitants resumed their weaving industry with the first co-operative of the trade in Israel. 50 members, each with his handloom, bought a IL10 share and the Histadrut's Department for Workers and Farmers granted a IL1,200 loan. The Controller of Supplies soon came to their help by providing quantities of raw material and cotton thread. The familiar whirring of the looms was heard once again through the narrow streets.

Textiles in Demand
Weavers are now earning an average of IL1,500 per day producing a fine variety of suits, headgear, towels, sheets and mattress and pillow covers, all in great demand by our growing Arab community. Sales are arranged by special agents in the main Arab centres and the demand for Migdal textiles has grown far beyond expectation. It is little wonder that customers of the co-operative's large store in Migdal are continually disappointed.

To encourage and help the enterprising Arabs of Migdal, the Histadrut's Department for Arab Workers set up Israel's first Arab Loan and Credit Bank with a membership of 280, each owning at least one IL250 share. The Histadrut added a IL1,300 loan. The Bank has already been busy; loans up to IL25 have been made to individuals and IL250 was loaned to a collective enterprise.

Migdal's newest project is a farming cooperative set up just four months ago. Over 20 workers were given 500 dunam suitable for intensive cultivation as there is plenty of water available. Vegetables have been planted and summer crops sown. The farmers have received a IL250 loan from the Migdal Bank for the purchase of equipment and seed. Poultry raising, cattle breeding and bee keeping will be under way as soon as more funds are available.

Social Welfare
Much is being done by the Government's Social Welfare Department. For the nominal sum of 10 prutot each, over 100 needy pupils receive a daily hot meal in the school restaurant, while over a dozen elderly invalids are cared for in a special home opened by the Department. More than 700 needy persons receive milk and food under a Unicef and Government joint scheme.

PEACE PLEA FROM JERUSALEM ATOM-BOMB LAW

The rule of law among nations was a particularly fitting subject to be taught in the City of the Prophets who first proclaimed the ideals of international peace, said Professor Hersch Lauterpacht, K.C., Whewell Professor of International Law at Cambridge, in the first of two guest lectures during the Hebrew University celebrations. The lecturer, a leading authority on international law, concluded his survey of legal developments after the Second World War with the following challenging observations.

Prohibition Imperative
We must cherish no illusion as to the efficacy of such prohibition. But we must not succumb to facile pessimism. Law in so far as it embodies compelling dictates of humanity and decency is of some potency in governing the conduct of men and in forming their habits. In any case, we must do our duty, in so far as it lies in us. We must not act — or fail to act — as if the future of the human race were a product of blind fate impervious to the will, intelligence, and moral responsibility.
